Neil Robinson's 30th Anniversary and Contributions to Contemporary Synagogue Music to be Honored at Liturgical Music Service Friday, November 17

The 52nd Annual Friday Evening Liturgical Music Service at 8 P.M. on November 17, 1995 will honor the 30th anniversary of our organist Neil Robinson's service to the Park Avenue Synagogue and will feature many of the musical compositions he has written for the Friday Evening Service over the past 30 years as well as new compositions for the "Kiddush" and "Mi Chamocha" which he wrote specifically for this service. According to Neil, "preparing for this service was a time of great introspection for me. It was a review of what I had created, of what I had accomplished, and an evaluation of what I thought was good, better or not so good."

Neil Robinson

Neil Robinson was born in Birmingham, Alabama and graduated with honors from the Juilliard School of Music. One of this country's major recitalists, he has toured extensively in Europe, Asia, and North America and has made frequent appearances at national conventions of the American Guild of Organists. Mr. Robinson has been praised by the international press for his "blazing technique and astounding improvisations."

Neil also has been active as a conductor, a composer, and a recorder for a number of commercial record labels, including Decca and the Musical Heritage Society. He has been commissioned to compose works by the Archbishop of Canterbury, by numerous American churches, and by the American Guild of Organists. His works have been performed at Lincoln Center and on network radio. In addition, he has com-

From the Rabbi's Desk

A story. Perhaps you have heard it? It goes like this. A man was trying to read a serious book and his son kept interrupting him. This young boy would lean against his father's knees and say, "Daddy, I love you." The father would give his son a pat and say rather absently, "Yes, son, I love you too!" and then give his son a little push away so that he could continue reading. But this did not satisfy the boy. Finally, he ran to his father and said: "I love you, Daddy." He jumped up on his father's lap, threw his arms around his father's neck and gave him a big hug. The boy explained: "And, I just have to do something about it."

How often are we too absorbed in our own work to hear or to experience the love of another? How often do we lose out on important loving moments because we are too busy to appreciate them or to even realize that they are taking place? And this applies to all relationships, doesn't it? Not just the parent-child relationship. But to all the relationships that fill our lives.

"Shema Yisrael," says the central prayer in our liturgy. "Listen Israel." In its context, this prayer speaks of listening to the claim that God is one. The Shema goes on to speak about listening to God and about how we do that. We listen to God by following the mitzvot, the commandments. But, we also listen to God when we listen to others, to others who call out to us in love. "Shema Yisrael," "Listen Israel," "Ve'ahavta." "And you should love."

- Rabbi Elana Zaiman

Liturgical Music Service

posed extensively for the synagogue liturgy, with the Park Avenue Synagogue the main beneficiary of his extraordinary musical gifts and talent.

Neil began his service with Park Avenue Synagogue in 1965 under the tutelage of Cantor David Putterman who required him to understand every Hebrew word, every accent, and every possible interpretation of a prayer, and what each meant, to be able to interpret the music appropriately. After working first with Cantor Putterman and since 1976 with Cantor David Lefkowitz, to both of whom he feels deeply indebted and grateful for their influences and what he learned from them, Neil feels that his main purpose is to interpret the liturgical text so that his musical renditions of the prayers evoke the appropriate emotional and spiritual response.

Besides his service to our synagogue for the past 30 years, Neil is the organist for the Park Avenue Christian Church. He currently is also chairman of the organ departments at both the Manhattan School of Music, America's largest private conservatory, and the Mannes School of Music.

Conductor Abraham Kaplan will direct the Synagogue Concert Choir for the 27th consecutive year, accompanied at the organ by Neil Robinson.

This annual Friday Evening Music Service is made possible by the Jack and Zella Butler Memorial Liturgical Music Endowment.

Plan to attend to honor and show your appreciation to Neil Robinson for the 30 years he has, with so much deep and sincere respect for our tradition, enhanced our synagogue's Shabbat, High Holy Days, and Festival services and our religious experience of them.

The service will be followed by a gala Oneg Shabbat on the Lower Level in honor of Neil Robinson and his service to our congregation.
